WILSON RESIGNS IN A HURRY

Acting Secretary of State at Odds Over China.

ATTACKS THE NEW POLICIES

Bitterly Criticises Change in Attitude in Far East and Upholds Abandoned Policy.

Washington, March 21.—Huntington Wilson, assistant secretary of state, who has been acting secretary in the absence from the capital of Secretary Bryan, has resigned and insisted upon immediate acceptance.

The resignation is based upon his radical difference of opinion with the administration regarding its Chinese policies. President Wilson immediately accepted the resignation.

Mr. Wilson, like all the assistant secretaries of the various departments, offered his resignation, as is customary, to President Wilson directly upon the latter's assumption of office. He was requested to continue in his place until it should be convenient for the president to name his successor.

Mr. Wilson consented to do so to accommodate Secretary Bryan, who desired to make his present visit to Lincoln, Neb. This action involved the abandonment of reservation which Mr. Wilson had made on a steamship sailing for Europe last Tuesday.

The issuing of the statement from the White House defining the administration's attitude regarding the $125,000,000 Chinese loan negotiation is believed to have been regarded by the assistant secretary as sufficient to justify him in requesting to be relieved at once from duty.

After telegraphic notice to Secretary Bryan of his intentions, Mr. Wilson dispatched a note to the White House terminating his service. President Wilson immediately designated the second assistant secretary, A. A. Adee, to act as secretary until Mr. Bryan returned.

A probable result of the resignation will be the immediate appointment of John Bassett Moore as counsellor of the department of state with authority to act as secretary.

In a long letter to President Wilson, the former acting secretary set forth that when he consented to continue for a time with the new administration he did not understand there was to be any radical change of policy for which he would be called upon to be spokesman.

"It becomes the duty of the acting secretary of state," the letter continues, "in dispatching instructions to the representatives of this government abroad and as the channel of communications with the representatives of foreign governments at Washington, to be spokesman of the president in regard to a new Far Eastern policy, which is apparently deducible from your statement issued to the press

"I had no reason to suppose that the officials on duty in the department of state would learn first from the newspapers of a declaration of policy, which, I think, shows on its face the inadequacy of consideration given to the facts and theories involved and the failure clearly to apprehend the motives leading to and the purposes of the policy superseded.

"I had no reason to suppose that the fate of the negotiations, which so long had the studious attention of the foreign officers of six great powers, would be abruptly determined with such quite unnecessary haste and in so unusual a manner. These methods, against which I respectfully protest, are the very extraordinary circumstances which I feel vitiate my understanding with Mr. Bryan and completely relieve me of any further obligation in the promises.

"The repeated utterances of the last administration must have made it perfectly clear that the motive and purpose of the policy now abandoned were first and primarily the protection of China's integrity and sovereignty, the uplift of the Chinese people, morally, materially and governmentally the development of China's resources and the maintenance of our traditional policy of the 'open door' or equal of opportunity for American enterprise."

Violent conversions must cease instantly.

MILITANTS BURN WIDOW'S HOME

Country House of Lady White Put to Torch.

London, March 21.—Incendiary fire, started by suffragettes, completely destroyed an unoccupied country home at Englefield Green, owned by Lady White, widow of Sir George White, the hero of Ladysmith in the Boer War. The loss is about $20,000

The police were left in no doubt as to who started the fire. "Stop torturing our comrades in prison," was the legend on placards posted around the burned house, and "Votes for Women" posters also were in evidence.

Scotland Yard detectives were out searching for two women who were seen riding away from the White home and were allowed to pass by the police. The women were on bicycles, and the policemen stopped them because one of them had no light. It is now believed that they were the suffragettes who fired the house.

Lady White is in France. She has not occupied the Englefield Green residence since the king allotted her quarters in Hampton Court palace, in recognition of the heroic service of her late husband.

A band of suffragettes also burned down the buildings on the golf links at Weston-Super-Mare, the fashionable summer watering place in Somersetshire.

THE POPE UNABLE TO RECEIVE DIAZ

Physician Fears Audience Would be Too Great a Strain.

Rome, March 21.—Professor Marchiafava, consulting physician to Pope Pius, refused to allow the pontiff to receive General Porfirio Diaz, former president of Mexico. He considered that the audience would be a dangerous strain on the pope in his weakened condition.

The newspaper Corriero della Sera stated that the pope celebrated mass on Wednesday against the advice of his physicians, and that this, taken together with other duties he insisted upon performing, greatly weakened him.

He has been advised to go to the Venetian mountains for a change of air and scene, but he will not listen to such a proposition.

Professor Marchiafava, the pope's physician, said that he was afraid the pope would not last long. In any case he will not resume his audiences for a month.

Seeks to Recover Share of Fair Estate From Heirs.

New York, March 21.—Another suit for one forty-second part of the estate left by Mrs. Caroline D. Fair, who was killed with her husband, Charles L. Fair, in an automobile accident in France in 1902, was brought in the supreme court.

This is the fifth suit of the same nature begun by the children of Mrs. Sarah Lefler, who was a sister of Mrs. Fair.

Mrs. Herman Oelrichs and Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt, sisters of Charles L. Fair, are named as defendants with others, as in all the other suits.

Mrs. Annie B. Leonard, the plantiff in the latest action, was formerly Miss Annie Lefler. It is alleged the estate should have been administered in New York state instead of in California, thus changing the right of relatives to the residuary estate.

DOCTOR FOUND DYING IN ROAD

Dr. Clarence S. Rether Found in Dying Condition Near Meadow Valley Stock Farm. Carried Into Barn.

Dr. Clarence Smith Rether, a Biglerville physician, was found lying unconscious in the road at Meadow Valley Stock Farm a short distance north of Gettysburg about 6:30 a. m.,Thursday and died a few minutes later, the result of alcoholism. He was aged about 58 years.

Dr. Rether appeared at the farm, tenanted by Leander M. Fanus, about seven o'clock Wednesday evening and talked for some time with members of the family. Later they retired thinking that he had left but Thursday shortly after six o'clock they discovered his unconscious form in the road where he had evidently been lying all night, and through the rain and storm of the early morning hours.

Mr. Fanus had prepared to move today and, having no place in the house where the man could be cared for. Mr. Fanus decided to take him to the barn. This was done with the assistance of Howard Hartzell,Roy Schriver and John Orndorff. Dr. Rether died within a minute or two after the barn was reached.

Coroner Woomer was advised of the facts in the case and decided that no inquest was necessary.

For a number of years Dr. Rether practiced medicine in Biglerville and later went to Brunswick, Maryland. He returned from there six or seven years ago and had made his home in Biglerville with his father who died about a year ago. Since then he had lived alone.

He leaves a wife who resides in Hagerstown, and three children, Wendall Rether and Clarence Rether, of Hazleton, and a daughter, of Philadelphia. Two brothers also survive, Dr. Charles H. Rether, of Columbus, Ohio;and George Rether,of Baltimore.

The funeral of the late Dr. Clarence S. Rether will be held from St. Paul's Lutheran church, Biglerville, on Saturday afternoon at 2:30, conducted by Rev. C. F. Floto. Interment in Centre View Cemetery.

SURPRISE PASTOR

Mr. and Mrs. Ott Given Surprise by Methodist Congregation.

On Wednesday evening, after prayer meeting, Rev. and Mrs. L. Dow Ott were given by the members of the church quite a surprise in the way of a reception, and by the presentation of many material tokens of esteem and joy over their re-appointment to this place. By the use of a little diplomacy they were detained after the prayer meeting, and the members repaired to the parsonage with their packages and baskets. A little later Mr. and Mrs. Ott came and found their house filled with an enthusiastic company to welcome them, and to give them a good start in the fifth year of their pastorate. All busied themselves with being sociable,and for a while the parsonage was a scene of enjoyment. The relations between this pastor's family and their people have been very pleasant, and such a launching of the new Conference year gives promise of continued hearty cooperation, and great success.

ENGINE USED AS A PATROL

Alleged Train Riders Arrested and Placed on Engine. Quick Run to Town.Parties now Cutting Wood at Lock-up.

Conveyed in an engine, pressed into service as a patrol wagon, Thomas Ryan and Thomas Burns were brought into Gettysburg late Wednesday afternoon by a Philadelphia and Reading detective and turned over to Officers Shealer and Emmons who placed them in the village lock-up.

Several nights ago freight cars at the local Reading station were entered and some articles stolen. Railroad detectives were put on the case and in their investigations found that Ryan and Burns were stealing rides on freights. The two men were discovered near Oak Ridge on Wednesday afternoon and an engine was quickly pressed into service. A hurry trip was made and Burns and Ryan were soon on their way back to town. They were not given very comfortable quarters as sitting room was at a premium but the ride was brief and the local police started the parade to the village bastile shortly afterward.

Once that stern and forbidding structure was reached the couple were shown their sleeping quarters for the next few nights and then taken to the terrace in the rear where they were allowed to inspect the pile of store boxes recently captured in an early morning raid by Officer Emmons. Spare moments will be devoted to converting these bits of furniture into kindling and Ryan and Burns will have ample occupation for their idle moments when they are not reading the newspapers, a month or two old, which are provided for their enlightenment by kindly-minded authorities.

Considerable damage was done by wind at Highfield.The roof of the Lake View Hotel, owned by Mrs. Rasche, of Baltimore Lake Royer, was blown off and landed in a field 500 yards away. Several boards were also torn from the building and were hurled against a chimney on the house occupied by Jacob Moore half a mile away demolishing it.

A house belonging to Mrs. T. A. Wastler, at Cascade, was moved off its foundation. The foot-bridge that spans Lake Royer was blown away and has not yet been located. The large barn of E. J. Wade, at Buena Vista station, was demolished and many trees in the orchard of Mrs. Nichols, Cascade, were uprooted. Ice houses belonging to the Buena Vista Ice Company were badly damaged.

HIGH WATER MARK IN ADAMS COUNTY

All Former Records Broken by Heavy Downpour of Rain which Took Creeks beyond Marks of Former Years.

Exceeding even the high water mark records made at the time of the Johnstown Flood, Adams County streams were swollen on Thursday to the greatest height in their history. Steady rains during the night which amounted almost to cloud-bursts at four, six and seven o'clock caused the sudden rise which in many sections made travel dangerous and at other places entirely precluded any possibility of crossing bridges over the main streams.

Rock Creek was swollen far beyond its banks and the bridge east of town could not be reached from either side. The Bonneauville bridge was threatened and the new Western Maryland bridge allowed traffic which would have been almost criminal over the old wooden trestle.

At eight o'clock Marsh Creek was two inches higher than its best mark at the time of the Johnstown disaster. Small foot bridges on Willoughby Run and other county streams were washed away early in the day though the big structures withstood the strain.

In Gettysburg conditions were the worst they have ever been known.The Tiber was the highest in its history. The college meadow was completely submerged and the land between Washington and Carlisle streets was under several feet of water. Culp Run was at its highest and"Sleepy Hollow" was badly flooded.

Cellars in all parts of town contained from six inches to several feet of water. Along Carlisle street a number of furnace fires were extinguished and pigs and chickens were liberated from buildings just in time to keep from being drowned. They could be seen for several hours afterward roaming about the streets.

Accompanying the rain was heavy wind and the water came in driving torrents. There were three distinct storms, the first occurring shortly before four o'clock and continuing for a quarter of an hour. At six o'clock a second downpour occurred and again at seven o'clock. People in all sections were awakened and many a town roof failed to perform its functions of keeping out the water so that garrets as well as cellars saw the effects of the rain.

The damage in the county is said to be confined almost entirely to washed out fields but here the loss will be heavy. Stock was in a place of safety in almost every instance and there was little loss from this source.

Roads were heavily washed and travel in some sections was practically impossible until late in the day. Those who had planned their spring flittings were compelled to postpone them, rural mail carriers were confronted with the usual difficulties, and others who had contemplated trips for the day were compelled in most instances to postpone them.

NEW FROG LAW

Mustn't Have More Than 25 Tadpoles at One Time.

If a bill introduced by Senator Buckman goes through, you will have to be very careful to swat none but leopard or pickerel frogs when you go hunting next June, and you will have to trust to the light of the moon to distinguish the leopard and the pickerel from their more exclusive neighbors, as the bill also forbids the use of artificial light to blind the frogs. Also you must not have in your possession more than twenty-five tadpoles at any one time, and you will be subject to a fine for slaughtering more than twenty-five pollywogs in any one day.The only hope that lies in the measure for the enthusiastic frog-hunter is that during July, August and September he may go about swatting to his heart's content any kind of frog that may show its little green head above the surface of a pond. Leopards and pickerels may all look alike to him then.

General H. S. Huidekoper, of Philadelphia, is in town for several days on business.

CAUSING MUCH ANXIETY HERE

Many Gettysburg People Have Relatives and Friends in Ohio Flood Districts.County People also Worried for Friends.

Much concern is felt in Gettysburg, Cashtown, York Springs and other Adams County communities for the safety of former residents who are now living in the flood-stricken districts of Ohio and Indiana among whom are the following:

Samuel Ackerman Troxell and three sons, Edward, Harry and Ralph Troxell, all well known in Gettysburg, are residents of Riverdale, the section of Dayton which suffered most severely from the flood. They are the father and three brothers of C. Wm. Troxell, of Hanover street. The father is a painter; Edward Troxell is a barber; Harry Troxell a superintendent in the factories of the National Cash Register Company; and Ralph Troxell is a structural iron worker.

Mrs. Norman S. Wolf, is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Tawney,of West Middle Street. Rev. Efforts were made by relatives and friends in Gettysburg and the county to get into communication with a number of these people on Thursday and to-day but all telegraph messages are received subject to great delay and the condition of the lines has been made all the worse by the storm which visited here this morning so that early news of their safety is not likely.

There is some local interest attached to the flood at Miamisburg, Ohio. Dr. Peschau, a prominent Lutheran minister of that city, is well known in Gettysburg and his son attended college here for several months this year It is said that both father and son are now in Europe.

The bill introduced in the Senate Wednesday to appropriate $50,000 for the relief of sufferers in Ohio was presented by Senator Herbst, of Berks County, who has a wide circle of friends in Gettysburg. The measure passed unanimously but was later recalled through a legal technicality and will be held over to next week.

ANOTHER IDEA FOR CELEBRATION

Confederate Captain would have Union and Confederate Veterans Form Two Lines and Shake Hands.

Captain R. W. Douthat, one of Pickett's captains who appeared at the Gettysburg Chautauqua in 1911, is one of the many who advance various schemes for the battle anniversary celebration this summer. He has contributed this as his idea of a fitting manner of observing the semi-centennial of the battle:

"Have the veterans who come to Gettysburg line up opposite each other, Confederates on one side and Union soldiers on the other, say not over twenty feet apart, and then have a patriotic speech of ten minutes length delivered by a Confederate and another of the same length delivered by a Union soldier—by men whose lives have proven them worthy and well qualified for the duty.

"Then, after the speeches, let the Confederate at one end of the line and the Union soldier at the other end give the same command, 'Forward, Guide Right, March!' and when the two lines get near enough, let them give the command, 'Halt!' and then every one give his opponent a hearty handshake, and if possible utter the words, 'I forgive' (I can, 'without any metal reservation or secret evasion of mind'). Then let the welkin ring with loud huzzahs from all the multitude; and after this, while the bands play The Star Spangled Banner, let the veterans go to their quarters.

"This would make the grandest Fourth of July celebration our country has ever known and stamp the veterans as being braver on the Fourth of July 1913 than they were when shot and shell and grape and canister swept the great field on July 3, 1863, and all the people would return to their homes with higher conceptions of American soldiery and greater love for the Fatherland.

"Yes, and the old soldiers having uttered the words 'I forgive' would retire on that evening with a greater soul peace than ever before had flooded their hearts. Even Heaven itself would seem to hover over such a scene, and God's blessing follow the nation that had such patriotism enshrined in the hearts of her people".

Captain Douthat apparently does not take into account the fact that 40,000 veterans are expected here in July, that if they were arranged in two lines and each man given a space of twenty-four inches the double line would extend for almost eight miles and there would not be very great probability of the ten minute speeches being heard at both ends.

Captain Douthat is the author of a scheme for a monument to both the North and South. He would have a solid base typify the Union before the war, two columns to show it divided during the war and a capstone to indicate its unity since then.

SOON DISPOSED OF HIS INHERITANCE

York Springs Man Plays Millionaire for a day.Buys Liquor and Engages in Horse Trading.

Trading horses, buying rum and otherwise celebrating over a bit of good fortune, Joseph DeCourcey Hall, of York Springs, Adams County's "millionaire for a day", has suddenly found himself bankrupt and without funds.

Hall is one of York Springs' most prominent residents—prominent from the standpoint of being well known—and his latest escapade has brought him even more of this publicity. He was born in England about 54 years ago—by birth and education a gentleman. While an undergraduate at Oxford University he became imbued with the wanderlust and in his travels since that time has visited many countries, Australia, South Africa, South America and other lands being in the line of his travels.

He finally came to this section and established his residence at York Springs traveling from there through this and Cumberland counties selling little rustic stands and photograph holders to afford him the necessaries of life.

Recently a relative in England died and he received as his legacy seventy pounds, or about $350. Now this Joseph DeCourcey Hall is a most likeable person, well educated, and a delightful conversationalist so that it was but a short time before his acquaintances knew of his good fortune.

They immediately set out to see whether Hall could live like a millionaire for just a few hours and it was a few moments until all were enjoying his liberality and taking John Barleycorn along to provide the chief form of celebration. Some horse traders heard of the loose money which appeared and soon had sold Hall one of their animals. Hall took to horse trading for a pastime and in almost less time than the narrative requires, the former Englishman was left with a mere semblance of the $350.

Fortunately Hall's disposition was apparently well known by the parties in charge of the estate from which he received the legacy and sufficient principal was withheld to allow a weekly payment of $5 during the remainder of his life. He is accordingly saved the necessity of having to work for his livelihood and will be able to spend the rest of his days in rest, recreation and happiness.

YOUNG SOLDIERS TO PARADE HERE

One Thousand Sons of Veterans Reserves to be Under Canvas. Evening Events and a Large Parade through Gettysburg.

With a thousand men under canvas, dress parades in camp each evening and a parade and review in the streets of town during the week, the annual encampment of the Sons of Veterans' Reserves here in June promises to be one of the most attractive events of the coming summer. The reserves will have with them three or four good bands and the week will be a gay one. The camp will be located at the northwest edge of town between Lincoln and Broadway streets, Carlisle street and the Harrisburg road, with a few of the tropps south of Lincoln street.

The reserves will open their camp on Sunday morning, June 22, coming into Gettysburg the day before, and continue under canvas for a week. The formal opening will occur with due ceremonies, and regular camp routine will follow immediately. Each evening there is dress parade and on Wednesday a parade through the town will occur, similar to the National Guard parade last year. While not so large the Sons of Veterans make a very creditable showing and those who have seen the parade at other encampments say that it is an exceptionally good event.

It is probable that either the Prep Campus or Nixon Field will be used for the evening parades.

Band concerts prove an enjoyable feature and the fact that the encampment of the Pennsylvania Division, Grand Army of tha Republic, will in all probability be held here at the same time makes it likely that the week of June 22 will be a big one.

That the two organizations will arrange their programs so as to work together is probable. The Sons of Veterans will have a reception one evening at the Eage Hotel, which will be headquarters for the civic body which does not go into camp. Another evening there will be a ball and the third evening the Sons of Vetrans will likely join the Grand Army men in a camp fire. Tha band concerts will also add to the enjoyable end of the Grand Army encampment.

The civic body of the Sons of Veteans, which will meet here on Juna 25 and 26, will hold their sessions in Xavier Hall. About six hundred delegates are expected to attend this meating, the program for which will be outlined later.

PRIZE TRAINS THROUGH HERE

Wreck on the Western Maryland Causes Fast Express and Mail Trains to be sent by Way of Gettysburg. Bring Mail and Papers.

Three of the Western Maryland's prize trains went through Gettysburg Saturday as the result of a wreck on the main line near Emory Grove which blocked traffic.

At half past seven the Pittsburgh Special, known as No. 7,came through here stopping only long enough to throw off the mail and papers which are usually brought around by way of Highfield on the regular train which is due at 8:41. The Main Line morning train East, known as Number 6, went through Gettysburg at 8:35 and the Fast Mail passed Gettysburg between 11 o'clock and noon.

Three men were injured in the wreck which occurred Friday night when engine No. 706, of the Western Maryland Railway turned turtle and four of the ten freight cars of the train were derailed near Carrollton Station, 27 miles from Baltimore. It is thought that a rail turned over, causing the accident.

The injured men are: H. E. Taylor, fireman, badly scalded; William V. Binkley, engineman, injured by fall; Unidentified grade learner, slightly injured.

The three men were taken to Baltimore and taken to Union Protestant Infirmary, while two wrecking trains were started immediately from Baltimore and Hagerstown. Arrangements were made to send the Pittsburgh special train No. 7 and the Fast Mail around by Gettysburg.

The accident occurred shortly after 9 o'clock as the train, which consisted of 10 "pick-up" freight cars, was going west after leaving Carrollton Station, seven miles west of Emory Grove. The road bed was thought to be in the best of condition along the stretch, as it had been recently inspected. The engine was not a fast one, but Engineer Binkley was traveling nice when without warning there came the sudden jolting which told that the train was off the track.

Shutting off the steam the engineer jumped as the engine turned over and escaped with a severe bruising. Fireman Taylor was too late. He was caught in a blast of steam and was badly scalded. Conductor George W. Roach and the rest of the crew escaped with a shaking-up,except the grade learner, who was newly employed.

News of the accident was quickly gotten to Baltimore and Hagerstown and the wrecking crews started off from both points while the chief dispatcher at Hillen Station made arrangements to get the passengers of the Pittsburgh special through on as nearly schedule time as possible.

It was stated at the chief dispatcher's office that the accident was thought to have been caused by a rail turning over in some unaccountable way. The accident was all the more a surprise as that section of the track had been recently repaired.

HOSPITAL FOR ALL VISITORS

Celebration Visitors to be Taken Care of by the State in Case they become Ill while here. Location is not yet Determined.

Dr. Samuel G. Dixon, with the assistance of a number of members of the State Department of Health, will have charge of a hospital in Gettysburg next July for the accommodation of the general public. This institution will be entirely separate and distinct from the Army hospital which will be located at the veterans' camp. It will also be placed in a different section from this latter hospital.

Dr. Dixon will be given the use of the equipment of the Hospital Corps of the National Guard of Pennsylvania and visitors here at the time of the battle anniversary who may be taken ill will be given the best of care.

The location of this hospital was one of the subjects taken up by the committee which visited Gettysburg on Friday. It will likely be placed south of town though no site has yet been determined upon. The committee also wanted to know the location of the latrines which the town is going to have erected and the state has agreed to pay for. The committee was informed that they would be in the streets of the borough, connected directly with the sewer system and the members seemed much pleased with the arrangement. The exact location will be announced in the very near future.

These and many other matters were gone over carefully. Three automobiles conveyed the Governor, General Stewart, commission members and railroad officials over the site of the veterans' camp and many of the arrangements were considered and acted upon. The plans are rapidly taking definite shape and will be fully matured in due time, it is stated.

GUARDING ROYALTY AT NIGHT

Elaborate Precautions That Are Taken to Insure the Safety of European Crowned Heads.

Every night the palace at which King George is sleeping is patrolled by night watchmen, who pass along the corridors, throughout the night, inspecting doors and windows. These watchmen wear carpet slippers to deaden the sounds of their footfalls, and are specially trained to know exactly what to do in case of fire. In addition to the night patrol, there is always a sentry on duty outside the chamber in which the king sleeps.

King Alfonso of Spain is guarded at night by specially selected soldiers, who take charge of the keys of all the doors each night. These men pledge themselves that the doors shall not be unlocked until daybreak, and no one is allowed to enter or leave the palace until the night is over. The guards sleep outside the royal bedchamber, so that no one may enter during the night.

King Albert of Belgium is another carefully-guarded monarch whom no one may disturb once night has set in. Soldiers patrol the corridors of the king's palace, and his special valet locks himself in the king's antechamber, which no other person is allowed to enter. The valet is forbidden to open either door until morning under penalty of death.

The czar of Russia, the closest guarded of any monarch, is protected at night by several companies of soldiers, including Englishmen, members of the secret police, and a body of Cossacks. The various companies work independently of one another.

The sultan of Turkey is nightly watched over by a very large number of soldiers and councillors, who remain within the neighborhood of his bedroom until morning. The sultan changes his sleeping apartment oftener than any other monarch. He has the choice of two-score bedchambers, and he visits many of these in turn throughout the year.

His holiness the pope is guarded by an attendant who is able to watch the welfare of his master through a spyhole in the wall of his bedchamber, so that the pope is always under observation.

He's a Wonder to His Wife.

A Missouri lady is trying an experiment. Her husband is a brilliant man, but loquacious. Realising his shortcomings, the wife is feeding him on fish. Three or four times a week she prepares fish in some delectable way. He is showing some uneasiness and has a marked predilection for water, but being innocent of his wife's motive, continues to eat the dishes set before him.

To her pastor, the wife recently confided:

"You see," soberly, "John is a very remarkable man, but he wastes too much time sermonizing when he should be thinking. He talks altogether too much. To counteract this, I am feeding him fish. During the last two months I have served him with seventeen different varieties of fish cooked in forty-seven different ways."

"Why fish?" asked the pastor, greatly interested.

"Because," replied the wife, "fish is food for thought."

"I see," said the reverend gentleman, "but have you noticed any marked change?"

The wife's face grew sad.

"Do you know, Mr. Jones, that husband of mine is such a chatterbox that I do believe he could eat the whale that swallowed Jonah and never lose a syllable!"—Woman's World.

Electricity Used as Food.

Professor Bergonie of Paris has advanced the theory that electricity can be made to take the place of food in sustaining life. His idea is that the essential purpose of food is to supply the body with internal warmth. He claims to have proved that low tension, high frequency currents of electricity can be passed through a man in such a manner as to produce the required energy warmth of maintained life. The great thing to guard against is the production of a temperature high enough to be fatal. According to Professor Bergonie, electric "food" is much superior to vegetables and meat, inasmuch as it imposes no work on the digestive organs, the food being directly absorbed by the nerves. Thus is avoided, the savant asserts, the ordinary fatiguing, wearying process of intestinal combustion which is so exhausting to invalids or to patients in a weakened state. "One dose of electric 'food,'" we are told, "will do a man as much good as three solid meals of ordinary food. More than that, electric food actually increases the patient's weight."

Guesthouses in Asia.

The guesthouse is a real institution in Asia Minor. It is sometimes owned by an individual, but is usually the common property of the village. In this guesthouse, like the travelers' bungalow in India, every traveler has a right, but as all have the same rights, one may have more company than he desires. However, the head man of the village usually arrange matters for the foreign traveler, and the native guest will often courteously make way for him. In the guesthouse is one large room, in one part of which our horses munch their hay, with the drivers lying beside them, while in the other part we spread our rugs and set up our beds and unlimber our cooking apparatus. Some guesthouses have two rooms connected by a wide opening, without a door, in one of which the animals and animal drivers sleep and in the other the pampered guests from abroad.—National Magazine.

FALLING KNIFE CAUSES DEATH

Young Man at Near Thurmont Escapes Injury in Fall but Meets Death when Following Knife Penetrates his Lung.

Falling from a ladder against a straw stack which he was ascending to cut down straw, Roy Clabaugh, of near Thurmont, aged about 25 years, fell to the ground, landing on his feet. Just as he landed safely on the ground the heavy hay knife which he was carrying fell from above, struck him in the middle of the back and penetrated nine inches into his body.

Although suffering intense pain the young man reached around and pulled the big knife from his body and started to walk toward the house. He was able to get half the distance when he fell exhausted. As a result of the loss of blood and the severe injury sustained he died Thursday evening.

Mr. Clabaugh was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Clabaugh, of near Thurmont, and had been living near Detour on the place of Mr. Dern. Thursday morning he was at work in the barn yard when the fatal accident occurred. A 16-foot ladder had been placed against the straw stack and the young man climbed up with the hay knife, which weighed five or six pounds,to cut down some of the straw.

In some way either the ladder slipped or he lost his balance and fell to the ground. While he was at a considerable height he managed to land on his feet but in the fall the knife dropped from his hand.He would have escaped without injury had the knife missed him. The heavy instrument pierced the young man's back and was imbedded nine inches in the body, entering the lungs.

With extraordinary courage young Clabaugh pulled from his body the large knife which had been plunged deep into his back and at once started for the house, crying for help. Mr. Dern discovered him, Clabaugh was carried to the house where he was given every attention. Although every effort was made to save his life he expired about 7 o'clock Thursday evening. The accident occurred 11 o'clock in the morning. Almost up to the time of death he was conscious and was able to explain just how the accident occurred.

Young Clabaugh is survived by his parents and a number of brothers and sisters.

The funeral was held Saturday at 10 o'clock from the Thurmont Lutheran church.

NEW PARCEL STAMPS

Will Bear Only Numerals, with Different Color for Each.

The design of a new and smaller parcel post stamp to replace those now in use has been approved by Postmaster General Burleson. Numerous complaints that the present stamp all denominations of which are the same color, is hard to distinguish as to value and easily "raised", caused the change. The new design will possess no artistic merit, but bear only a large numeral. The various denominations will be in different colors. Approximately $50,000 yearly will be saved by the smaller stamps, it is estimated.

EASTER SUNDAY IN GETTYSBURG

Churches Observe the Day with Appropriate Exercises. Over One Hundred Joined St. James. Saturday's Egg Hunt.

Gettysburg's observance of Easter in its religious services and other features was carried out this year even more generally than ever before and the day's real significance was the theme in all the churches of the town.

At many of the churches Eastertide is taken for the reception of new members and a large number were added to the rolls of Gettysburg's congregations this year. Sunday witnessed the reception of 103 new members at St. James Lutheran church in the morning, this number being by far the largest of any congregation in town. Others received additions from the confirmation classes, by letter from other churches and by restoration.

Easter flowers and plants were used in the decorations in the various houses of worship and practically every one of the Sunday Schools held a service appropriate to the day. Exercises,provided by the various boards representing the different lines of church activity, were used in most instances while in the Reformed church a cantata was rendered at the evening hour.

The tradition about the Easter rabbit was carried out in many homes of the town for the benefit of the little ones and many were made happy by the brightly colored eggs, the candy rabbits and all the other things that have always gone with the complete observance of the day.Saturday afternoon a large number of children participated in the egg hunt provided by members of the Presbyterian church on East Cemetery Hill and all spent a happy hour searching among leaves for the prettily colored eggs. The affair was so enjoyable that the suggestion was advanced that in succeeding years it be made a town event and that all the young children of Gettysburg be permitted to take part. It could very readily be made a pleasant feature of the town's Easter observance.

Cold winds kept in-doors the Easter promenaders this year and the usual display of Spring fashions was almost totally absent, people continuing to wear their winter garments, with the possible exception of spring hats which appeared in a variety of shapes and colors.

Easter is now more of a home-coming day than in the past and many of the homes of town had members of the family here for the day. Other visitors in town were numerous and Gettysburg's "keeping" of the day was fully as general as in past years.

100 DAYS FOR KILLING DEER

Heavy Sentence for Killing Deer out of Season. South Mountain Scene of Shooting This Week.

One hundred dollars fine or one hundred days in jail was the sentence imposed upon Charles C. Welsh on Thursday, for having killed a deer out of season. Welsh was unable to pay the fine and was committed to jail. The shooting of the deer took place on South Mountain and the arrest was made by State police.

The hearing was held before Justice Potter, in Waynesboro, Thursday.

Sergeant H. K. Merryfield was the first witness to testify. He said that, acting upon information he had received, he went to the Welsh place near Tometown, accompanied by Adam Strousner and Percy Rock, and at a spot in Welsh's back yard, pointed out by Rock, he exhumed the hide, head and feet of a deer.

The right side of the head was badly mangled and contained a number of shot, indicating that the weapon used was a shot gun. The head and hide were covered with fresh blood, showing that it had been buried only a short time. The hide and feet were produced at the hearing. He then told of arresting Welsh.

Private Campbell, who accompanied Sergeant Merryfield testified that he saw the latter dig up the hide in Welsh's back yard. Also that he found a saw at the house with fresh blood upon it and a shot gun, which, according to the odor, had been fired recently.

Adam Strausner, a man living on an adjoining proeprty to the Welsh place, said that Tuesday morning he was working in a field when he heard the report of a gun in a nearby woods. Approaching the edge of the woods, he saw Welsh emerge with a shot gun under his arm and headed toward his home. He then went into the woods and by the aid of blood spots he traced his way to a stack of leaves. These he brushed aside and discovered a deer dead, but still warm. He then retraced his steps and returned home.

Percy Rock testified that when he learned that Welsh shot a deer he concealed himself behind a stump in the rear of the Welsh place Tuesday morning and saw Welsh come out of his cellar with the deer hide and head and bury them in his back yard.

Welsh, the defendant, was then heard. He denied having killed the deer, saying that he had been working around the house all morning, planting potatoes and building a dog cave. Did not bury hide and did not know it was there. He further stated that Adam Strausner and Rock did not like him because he had killed one of their dogs while running a deer a few weeks ago, and for reporting the matter to Squire Newman.

LOST HOUSE IN DISASTROUS FIRE

Residence of Aaron Geisler in Mount Pleasant Township Totally Destroyed with All the Contents in Early Morning Blaze.

Fire about 2 o'clock Tuesday morning completely destroyed the residence of Aaron Geisler in Mount Pleasant township a mile and a half north of Bonneauville.

The blaze was first discovered by members of the family who were fortunately awakened before it had preceded very far. When first seen it was coming from an out-house close to the residence and for some minutes the family devoted all their energies to confining the flames to this smaller building.

The fire spread to the house, however, and soon it was doomed. So rapidly did it burn that it was possible to save only a portion of the contents and much of the furniture, clothing and other articles were destroyed.

The origin of the fire is not definitely known. The usual washing had been done in the out-house during Monday and there was a fire used for this work. It is thought possible that the destructive fire started from this, as there was no other known cause.

KILL HUNTERS' LICENSE

Other Matters of Interest to Local People are Considered.

The hunters' license bill was defeated in the House Tuesday night by a vote of 97 to 79, receiving seven short of a constitutional majority. This will be good news to many Adams County sportsmen who have opposed the bill. Some local hunters favor it but the majority seem to be against it.

The Senate Judiciary Special Committee set April 8 for a public hearing on the bill which provides that ten verses of the Bible shall be read daily in every public school of the State. The bill has not passed the House. A petition, signed by more than 400,000 persons has been taken to Harrisburg in the interest of the bill. The proposed legislation provides that teachers shall make no comment after reading from the Bible. The petition is signed by a number of Gettysburg people.

MEASLES MATTER STILL THE TALK

Arendtsville and Butler Township still Wrought up over the Measles Quarantine and Manner of its Enforcement.

Arendtsville and Butler township continue to have the measles situation as one of their principal topics of interest and a vigorous protest has arisen over the enforcement of the quarantine law by local officials representing the State Department of Health. In discussing the question with a representative of The News one of the township's well known citizens said,

"We do not feel that our side of the matter has been given the publicity it deserves and fear that our attitude in the matter is not understood. It has been intimated that the people of our vicinity are evading the law, that they fail to employ a physician when needed, and that they cause further trouble by sending children to schools just as soon as they recover from an attack of the disease. We feel that we have a right to protest for a number of reasons.

"Our residents are not the sort of people to act contrary to the law and to good judgment. We are informed that no one but a physician can take oath as to measles diagnosis and there is not a family here who would not summon a physician if needed, but there is no law to compel us to employ one when it is not necessary.

"One of our principal objections to the present method of action on the part of the health authorities is the question of fumigation. It is the practice now to fumigate just one room in a house while it is well known that no child with measles is kept in one room for twenty one days, and consequently the fumigation of just one room can be of little effect. The work of fumigation is not uniform. In one home the material has been allowed to remain for five hours, in another only twenty minutes. Some of our people also claim that they are kept under quarantine more than the twenty one day period prescribed by law.

"It is very true that the feeling in the quarantine matter is very keen in this vicinity but there is good reason for it. The law is thought by practically every person to be more severe than necessary and there is much objection to the manner in which it is being enfored. The feeling here is that the officers have been too drastic and that better results could have been obtained if a different method of dealing with our people had been used."

It is claimed the accused drove to Hanover early Monday morning and tied his horse in the rear of Hotel O'Bold, where it remained until 9 o'clock that night, without food or water.

MAROONED CITIZENS

OTHER TOWNS STRICKEN

1000 More Drowned at Columbus and Chillicothe.

THE WATERS ARE RECEDING

The Wire Service Is Paralyzed and Fate of Many Towns In Ohio Is Not Yet Known—Conditions In Indiana the Same—Cloudbursts and Flood In Pennsylvania.

The 70,000 citizens of Dayton, O. who have been marooned since the first day of the flood, are safe, according to the chief of police of that city, who has been directing rescue work.

He believes that outside of North Dayton the dead will not exceed 200, but it is feared there has been heavy loss of life in the suburbs. Fire started in the ruins again, but no word as to the loss of life in the flames has been received.

From 600 to 1000 are dead in Columbus, on the west side.

It is said over 150 are dead at Zanesville, O., where half the city is inundated.

The Scioto river, from Columbus to the Ohio river, 100 miles south, is a raging flood. Fifty miles south of Columbus is Chillicothe, the first capital of the state. It is under water. Twenty-five are dead and many more are missing.

The situation in Indiana is about the same. Cooler weather has added to the suffering in both states.

Telegraph service throughout Ohio and Indiana is almost annihilated for the time, not a wire being available on the lines of either of the big companies. News is sent out over telephones or by couriers to the nearest telegraph office outside the flooded district. Conditions are reported the worst in the history of telegraphy. Train service is equally bad and will remain so for several days at least.

Vigorous measures have been taken by the national government in the direction of relief and the precautions against pestilence. By direction of the president, Lindley M. Garrison, secretary of war, left to survey the situation in Ohio. He went by special train, accompanied by Major General Leonard M. Wood and several other officials.

Flood conditions in western Pennsylvania continue serious, but no further loss of life is reported.

Small tornadoes and heavy rains swept over Delaware and Maryland, overthrowing dwellings, flooding rivers and making huge reservoirs a menace to valley inhabitants.

Throughout the Pennsylvania coal regions the mines are flooded. At Shenandoah miners were forced to flee before the onrushing waters. The city of Scranton was visited by a veritable cloudburst, and couriers were sent to warn the people of the low lands, as fears were entertained that the dams at the headwaters of the Lackawanna river would give way.

Marooned In Dayton Are Safe.

Dayton, O., March 28.—All but a few of those hundreds of persons who have been marooned in the downtown section of flooded Dayton since Tuesday morning are safe.

Chief of Police J. N. Allaback, himself marooned, who has been directing the rescue work, gave the first information on the situation in what has heretofore been the water bound d...

Except for the loss of life on the north side of the river, there will not be more than 200 dead in Dayton, according to Allaback's estimate after he had received information as to the situation on the south side. It has been the belief all along that the greatest loss of life would be found on the north side.

The worst condition found near the center of the flood was in the work house, where sixty prisoners have not had a drop of water nor a bite of food since Tuesday.

No word has been heard from Mayor Phillips. The chief of police had been unable to get near the Phillips house and did not know wether the mayor would be found dead or alive.

North of Burns avenue as far as Fourth street the water was found to be from three to six feet deep.

Beyond Fourth street the water has receded to make it possible in many places to proceed on foot. From Fourth street to the Big Miami river relief work was taken up by a committee headed by Chief Allaback. All of the grocery stores were commandeered and, although in most cases the goods were covered with water, yet sufficient supplies were found to prevent great suffering among those in the interior dry strip.

DAYTON ARE SAFE

While there may be many deaths in individual homes, which have been without food or drink, there was no place but the workhouse where any considerable number of people were held without food. None had enough, but no case approaching actual starvation was found.

Knowledge that the death list is likely to prove low in the downtown section gave rise to a hope that even in North Dayton, about which nearly all hope had been abandoned, there might be fewer deaths than anticipated.

The progress of the first canoe into the water-bound district was greeted by appeals for bread and water. In nearly every house left standing wistful faces were to be seen pressed against window panes. All of these were asked whether there had been any deaths, and with only a few exceptions all replied that there had not.

Although heartened by news from the flood zone's interior, Governor Cox's secretary, Mr. Burba, was scarcely able to credit the assertion. From his own investigation of the southern district he was unable to believe that the death list would be under 1500.

"There are 10,000 unaccounted for on this side of the river," he said, "and if all but 200 of these are found it will be the greatest miracle of the time."

It was impossible to approach within several blocks of the fire zone, even in the canoe, but it is possible that the fire has been confined to the blocks beyond Jefferson and Third streets.

300 Safe In Hotel.

The 300 guests of the Algonquin hotel have been kept comfortable except for the continuous dread that the fire would spread to them. The water has reached the second floor, but all supplies had been moved to places of safety and those in the hotel experienced little discomfort.

Two hundred women and babies found refuge in a paint factory in North Dayton, where it is believed they have found sufficient food to keep them from acute suffering. An effort is to be made at once to rescue them.

The suburb of Riverdale, up to Helena street, has been penetrated by the downtown relief commission and conditions found much similar to those in the southern suburbs. Every one has been crowded to the second floors or roofs of their homes, but few of the more stable dwellings were washed away. North of Helena street has not been reached, but it is believed the conditions there will prove as bad as had been feared.

Conditions In Brief.

The following is a tabulated estimate of conditions:

Dead—Accurate estimate impossible.
Seventy thousand persons marooned.
Fifteen thousand residences submerged.
One hundred and twenty miles of streets inundated.
Five thousand persons provided for in rescue stations.
Five hundred horses killed.
One thousand automobiles damaged.

There were tentative figures of damage that placed Dayton's pecuniary loss at $25,000,000, estimated by persons who had explored part of the flood area.

Governor Cox ordered that no more sightseers be permitted in Dayton, and when Colonel Catrow attempted to have railroad coaches of an arriving train vacated many of the passengers showed fight and refused to leave. Orders were given the trainmen to cut off the two rear coaches and they were left standing on the track.

Parts of Main street are impassable because of debris. At several points it comprised outbuildings that had struck more stable buildings and been dashed to pieces.

Recover Bodies In Columbus.

Columbus, O., March 28.—First direct communication was established with the west side of Columbus when Undertaker Oaman said over the telephone that he had nineteen bodies in his morgue and orders to care for sixty more as soon as possible.

He says that he estimates the number of dead in the United Brethren church on the west side at 200. From 100 to 150 bodies, he says, are lying partly submerged in Avondale avenue. About 200 more, according to Mr. Oaman, are lying in West Park avenue.

Between 600 and 1000 persons lost their lives in the flooded west side according to representatives of the Columbus Dispatch, who got into communication with the newspaper office from the previously isolated section as soon as communication was re-established.

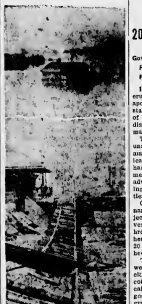

25 Dead at Chillicothe, O.

Columbus, O., March 28.—Twenty-five persons were drowned, many more are missing and great property damage was wrought by the Scioto river floods at Chillicothe, which has been cut off from all communication according to the statement by G. W. C. Perry, editor of the Chillicothe Gazette, over the long distance telephone.

Mr. Perry said that while many persons were missing, the known death list will not exceed twenty-five persons. A great part of Chillicothe is ...

Such scenes as these are common in the flooded districts in Ohio and Indiana.

150 DEAD AT ZANESVILLE

Half the City Is Inundated and Big Warehouses Are Burning.

Zanesville, O., March 28—Chaos and mute terror holds sway in this city. The mad, swirling waters of the Muskingum river are mounting higher and higher on the sides of the hills on which lies the town, until it has now reached Fifth avenue and Main street, the center of the business section.

Half the city is inundated, the flood varying in depth from one to fifteen feet. Over 150 lives have been sacrificed in the city proper, while the valley below has given up a greater toll. Over 600 buildings have been torn off their foundations and swept away by the mill race currents, while many other buildings have collapsed and been thrown against those still holding. To add to the fear of the terror-stricken inhabitants fire now menaces the town and starvation also threatens them.

A conservative estimate of the property loss in Zanesville alone would be $8,000,000. Not a wheel in the city is moving. The light and heating plants are all under water, and it is feared that the supply can last but a short time, owing to the breaks of the line, which allows the pipes to fill with water.

Four large warehouses in Putnam, a southern section of the city, are burning fiercely. The fire ignited from the lime stored in the buildings coming in contact with the water. Other buildings in the vicinity will likely soon be in flames, as a high wind is sweeping over the city, accompanied by a driving snowstorm. Nothing can be done to check the flames, as the buildings burning are surrounded by thirteen feet of water.

Many corpses have been seen floating in the waters, but no concerted effort has been made to recover them up to the present time in the lower part of the city, where the rush of the water is strongest and the depth the greatest, the cry was: "Every man for himself."

Indescribable scenes were witnessed by those who were fortunate enough to escape with their lives to the hill sides in safety. Harrowing tales are told of mothers and fathers fighting to save their children from the merciless maw of the turbulent waters.

250 Dead at Hamilton.

Hamilton, O., March 28.—Ten bodies were uncovered from the flood ruins of this city in the first hour of the search. Figuring on this average, it is believed no less than 250 persons lost their lives here. The Lakeview hotel, in the resident portion of the town, collapsed. It is said that fifty people had taken refuge there earlier in the day. As the water recedes the damage to property appears to increase. The town is under martial law.

Terre Haute Paralyzed.

Terre Haute Ind., March 28.—Light and transportation facilities are paralyzed in this city. The stage of the river is at thirty-one feet, six inches, and business is at a standstill. The electric light plant has just closed and There are 4000 persons homeless as the result of the flood, which is steadily spreading.

Six Dead at Akron, O.

Akron, O., March 28.—A heavy rain has increased the suffering among the flood victims. Two hundred families are homeless. Six persons are reported dead. Fortunately for Akron and Barberton, the dam near Willow creek burst in such a way that the canal carried off most of the overflow.

LOOTERS CAUGHT WORKING IN RUINS

West Indianapolis Placed Under Martial Law.

200 TO 500 ARE DEAD

Governor of Indiana Seeks to Check Rise In Food Prices—Relief Parties Reach Survivors With Supplies.

Indianapolis, Ind., March 28.—Governor Ralston declared West Indianapolis under martial law. Vandals started to rob and pillage. A company of state troops was rushed into the district and a number of arrests were made.

That all of Indianapolis might be under martial law was strongly intimated by Governor Ralston, when he learned that prices on all foodstuffs had been increased by the commission merchants. The price of eggs has been advanced ten cents, with correspondingly higher prices on other commodities.

Governor Ralston was very indignant, but declined to discuss the subject further until he completed an investigation. Before the supply of bread available on the West Side had been exhausted loaves were selling at 20 cents each. The supply of meat has been exhausted.

That section of Indianapolis lying west of the river is the poorest in the city. The supply of meat, eggs, milk, coffee, bread and butter was practically exhausted. Little save canned goods remained on the shelves of the grocers. This section was absolutely without communication with the business section of the city.

Food and provisions have reached Indianapolis, but the consignments were meager, owing to the fact that no railroads can approach this section and all supplies must be brought in by rowboat.

The flood situation in Indiana was slightly improved. Relief parties, carrying food, medicines, clothing and other supplies, are reaching the stricken sections and allaying the suffering of the thousands who have been rendered homeless.

The angry waters, which exacted a toll of from 200 to 500 human lives and caused a property loss estimated between $25,000,000 and $40,000,000, were reported to be receding, and the heavy rains have ceased.

Refugees from the sections visited by the floods tell narratives of frightful experiences. The most vivid of these were related by those who escaped death in Peru, where from fifty to 150 perished, and in the suburbs of Indianapolis.

Disease arising from the unsanitory conditions and the experience of the flood victims already threatens to claim a greater toll than the waters. Five of the women rescued and taken to Tomlinson hall are suffering from pneumonia, and cases of the whooping cough and measles were discovered among the refugees. Those suffering from contagious diseases were removed at once.

When the White river broke through the levee, drowning from fourteen to thirty persons, there were many thrilling escapes from death. Harvey Reed, a policeman, who assisted in the rescue of more than a score of persons, declared it as his opinion that the death list in West Indianapolis would be very large and that the estimate of from fourteen to thirty is too small.

"Perhaps there were a half dozen, maybe more, but we were so busy rescuing the living ones that we made no effort to reach the bodies."

From Peru came word that, although high water prevented search of the district which suffered most in Monday's flood, the authorities had found that 100 persons were missing and at least fifty dead.

The flood in Peru is receding three inches an hour. The water has fallen four feet, but the current is so swift it is impossible to investigate in rowboats the district in which may have occurred heavy loss of life.

Disease has already appeared in the form of more than fifty cases of diphtheria, measles and mumps among children of the destitute. The physicians look for scores of cases of typhoid from the drinking of contaminated water before the water plant resumes.

CLOUDBURST IN PENNA.

Mine Regions Visited by Heavy Downpour and Rivers Overflow Banks.

Scranton, Pa., March 28.—This vicinity was visited by another cloudburst and tornado. The river overflowed its banks and several mines were compelled to shut down.

Water surrounded the Frisbie and the Bliss silk mills in Dickson City and the girls were marooned for the night. Six hundred people living on "Hungarian Flats" in the northern end of the city, became panic-stricken when water broke through the streets and taking their cattle and household goods they fled to the hills at Throop.

At the Oklahoma state fair, which was held a short time since, Choctaw Indians won first prizes over white farmers with their exhibits of corn, cotton, beans and some other products. The government is taking considerable pains to teach them, and they seem to be profiting by it.

MR. BAUGHMAN WANTS THE GRAY

Gettysburg Citizen Writes to Philadephia Paper Answering Man who Wants to See no Gray Unilorms here this Year.

Otis G. Baughman, of West Middle street, has replied through the columns of the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin to the letter it published a week age protesting against the wearing of the Gray at Gettysburg in July. Mr. Baughman says:

To the Editor of "The Bulletin."

Sir: I do not wish it to be understood that I am a Confederate sympathizer. I have resided in the North and have been a good Union man all my life, before, during and since the war, but at this late day, when we live in peace, as a united country, far be it for me to be so narrow-minded as "Mr. Bradley," and publicly express myself in the bitter sentiments of enmity and hatred as he has done. We are to have a celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the battle of Gettysburg. The Blue and the Gray will meet together in reunion; in peace, not in strife, as "Mr. B.'s" expressions would indicate. All, North and South, who attend this celebration are looking forward to having a good time and enjoying themselves and all will return to their homes with the assurance that we live in a time of peace as a united country.

At the January meeting of the Pennsylvania Commission, held in Philadelphia, General Felix H. Robertson, of Texas, well said: "That the Gettysburg reunion was not to celebrate a victory, but to celebrate peace," and at this same meeting Governor Tener, without any hesitation, notwithstanding what General Wagner said, gave the Confederate veterans permission to wear their old gray uniforms, if they so desired. The Governor further said: "They will be as heartily welcome at Gettysburg as the man in blue, even if they came in the old gray uniforms, which they wore at Gettysburg fifty years ago; whether the uniform be of blue or gray, the wearer will be heartily welcome."

What is "Mr. B." going to do about it? If he so much dislikes and hates the gray uniform, he must deprive himself of attending the celebration. The only flag to be prominently displayed and unfurled to the breeze will be the Stars and Stripes: this has also been decided, so "Mr. B." doesn't need to worry about this part of the celebration. I speak for thousands when I say we do not despise and hate the gray uniform as "Mr. B." does; if thousands were like him there would be contention, strife and unrest all the time. The time has long since passed when any person in a united, peaceful country like ours should think of, much less undertake to do, what "Mr. B." has done, to vent his enmity, hatred and prejudice upon a people who are with us and who are manfully struggling to recover from the ravages and disastrous effects of the war.

The fiftieth anniversary of the battle of Gettysburg will be inscribed on the pages of history and handed down to future generations, to teach them, not war, but peace; it will inculate into their minds and hearts that higher, grander and nobler principle of "Peace on earth, good will toward men."

REWARD INCREASED

Commission Increases Reward for Battlefield Vandal to $500.

The National Park Commission has increased the reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the party who mutilated monuments on the Gettysburg Battlefield several weeks ago from $100 to $500. Persons who give information will be reimbursed for any liability on account of such information. There has been no development in the case since the discovery was first made and the identity of the vandal remains as much a mystery as the motive which prompted the crime.

LIKELY TO KEEP VETERANS A WEEK

Railroads Consider Proposition to Bring First Section of Veterans to This Place on Sunday Preceding Anniversary.

In order to handle the crowds who will attend the battle anniversary celebration here in July it is probable that the two railroads entering Gettysburg will start the work of transportation on Sunday evening, June 29, and that they will continue until the following Sunday, July 6.

The railroads have come to the realization that it will be impossible to get the veterans and their friends here in any other way and in all probability this plan will be adopted. Should the veterans start to arrive on Sunday evening it will, of course, be necessary that provision be made for them in the camp and it is thought likely that the War Department will make the necessary plans to accommodate them.

The problem of storing the passenger cars at Gettysburg is a big one in itself. Last year it was necessary to take some trains on up the Western Maryland to other stations in order to get trackage for storage use. Those crowds were small compared to the ones expected this year.

Six additional tracks will be laid in the Reading yards in the next few weeks, giving the station ten in all, in addition to the ones at the passenger depot. Six of these, with a capacity of 108 cars, will be for passenger use and the other four for freight cars. It was stated on good authority some time ago that the Western Maryland would put in additional yards east of town but there has since been no definite news along that line.

The proposition of bringing the veterans here several days before the opening of the anniversary and keeping them until after its close will mean just that much more work for the town. Realizing the difficulty of getting to Gettysburg at the rush season many visitors are preparing to come here the week previous and will bring along tents. These companies expect to bring anywhere from one to two hundred tents and are writing to find grounds on which to place them.

As yet we have heard of no one who is anxious to stand guard over the belongings of the campers while they are out participating in the festivities.

LOST WILL FOUND

Will of Mont Alto Man Lost but Found in Time.

Thomas A. Keller, of Mont Alto, died and, as no will could be found, Peter A. Hassler took out letters of administration on the estate. Later a will was found, one made in 1898, giving his wife, Elizabeth, his entire estate and making her executrix. She renounced as executrix in favor of Peter A. Hassler and letters were issued to him and the will was probated.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LEAGUE AGAIN

Enthusiasts Want Another Season but Think it will only be Half as Long as in Other Years. Various Considerations.

Gettysburg's base ball fans who watched with interest the progress of last year's Sunday School League and who retained their interest in it, notwithstanding the numerous trials and tribulations through which it passed, are now discussing and making plans for a similar series of games during the coming summer.

It is generally conceded that it will be impossible to carry out a schedule such as was arranged and completed last year and which provided that every team play two games with every other in the league. This made a total of thirty games. Toward the end of the season darkness frequently fell before more than two innings had been played and the closing games were rushed through in order to get in the necessary five innings.

It is impossible to get the use of Nixon Field before commencement which occurs on June 11. Two weeks later the Grand Army encampment and the Sons of Veterans gathering will occur here and there will be no base ball that week. The fiftieth anniversary celebration and the attending excitement will continue until July 10 at least, so that little, if any, baseball will be played up to that time.

The plan now advanced is that just half as long a schedule be played as in other years and that each of the six teams play only one game with each of the others. A meeting for the final decision on this and on the rules for the coming summer will be held in the near future.

Should the base ball diamond on the new Kurtz playground be completed before June this would simplify matters considerably but that is unlikely for a large amount of grading must be done and the field would not be in condition for some weeks after actual operations started.

WENT TO CHURCH

Horses Gallop at Full Speed up Baltimore Street to Church.

A double team belonging to Edward Weikert, of near Greenmount, ran away from the Gettysburg Department Store warehouse on Tuesday and created a lot of excitement on the principal streets of town but did little damage. The horses came up York street at full tilt and galloped through the Square to Baltimore street. They continued on up Baltimore street to High and then on High street to the Reformed church where they slowed down and walked up to the hitching post where Mr. Weikert is accustomed to tie while attending services. The team was found there soon afterward, intact and with no damage to either horses or wagon. A number of people tried to stop the horses as they traveled through town but none succeeded and several persons had narrow escapes in getting out of their way.

READING WRECK

Eighteen Cars of Coal Were Derailed on the Reading.

Quite a disastrous wreck occurred on the Philadelphia and Reading railway at Grantham, between here and Harrisburg, Saturday afternoon about two o'clock. About 18 cars were derailed, all "battleships" loaded with coal. It required the work of two wrecking crews to clear it up by Sunday afternoon. The Cumberland Valley hauled Reading freight in the interim. Fortunately no one was injured.

CANKER AMONG TURKEYS.

It's not often the big thirty pound gobbler with the red flannel cravat gets the sniffles and the sore throat.

He swings up there in the tip top and seems to enjoy the wintry wind.

He shoves his bald head under his thick coat and sleeps as sound as a fellow in a feather bed.

But it's the young stock, especially those hatched late, where you find your winter patients, and these at times get those white spots in the mouth and throat, and such canker patches aren't so easy to treat, as turkeys are so nervous and strong.

You can generally tell the victims by their manner of eating, and we have seen them with such a bunch of the cheesy matter in their mouths that they couldn't eat at all.

Canker sometimes forms in the opening of the windpipe. The turk gasps for breath, and an examination shows the white plug with a little hole in the center, through which it breathes.

At times the mouth roof cleft is filled. Thus the fowl cannot breathe through its nostrils, and it stands with mouth open.

Canker is contagious and is found where are drafts, damp, foul air and filth. It is easily spread where fowls eat from the same trough and drink from the same vessel.

All poultry is subject to it, and we have found the ordinary yellow canker not difficult to cure unless complicated with other disease. The patient should be penned in a comfortable place and the canker patches be gently removed and the raw surface receive frequent applications of peroxide of hydrogen, and moist milk mash should be fed.

The wise turkey raiser has a comfortable, well ventilated shed, where he drives his flock to roost in severe winter weather, and this only shows his practical sense, for the wild turkey does not sleep on trees in the open, but seeks the deepest woods, where the wind cannot strike it.

DON'TS.

Don't store high priced feed in a henhouse granary.

Don't sell all your best turkeys and keep the inferior for breeding.

WANT BETTER TRAIN SERVICE

Still Advocating Better Train Service between Gettysburg and Harrisburg. Latter City Anxious for Gettysburg Money.

"There are unmistakable signs that the Philadelphia and Reading Railway Company is awakened to the fact that its Gettysburg and Harrisburg branch might be developed into an important passenger line as well as a profitable freight road," according to the Harrisburg Telegraph, which continues,

"All indications are that a little encouragement from the leading merchants and leading citizens of Harrisburg and the various communities between Carlisle Junction and Gettysburg is all that would be necessary to induce the company to try out a service between the Capital and the battlefield town that would divert to us business which, has been going to Baltimore heretofore.

"One additional train each way a day, or even a re-arrangement of the trains now running, would inevitably establish relations between Harrisburg and Gettysburg such as have never existed before and create a traffic which has not been allowed to grow.

"We must make it possible for the shopper to leave home after breakfast and get back before supper if we are to make a regular customer of him. The Gettysburger now has to come down the night before and go home at noon, or he may start before dinner and return after nine o'clock in the evening. These are not the facilities that attract suburban patrons.

"The Reading Company is spending thousands of dollars on the improvement of the Gettysburg and Harrisburg's roadway between Carlisle Junction—the point where Shippensburg trains branch off—and Gettysburg. It has been compelled to make costly preparations for the re-union of the Blue and Gray next July. It could test a new schedule now, or in a month or two from now, at little expense and, of course, it is to the advantage of the Reading to make its improvements pay the largest possible dividends.

"We have strong hopes that somebody with a vision, determination, civic enterprise and, perhaps, a little selfish interest, will take up the matter and push it through to success before our golden opportunity is gone."

FARMERS NOT KEEN

For Expert Advice. Believe Experience is the Best Teacher.

More than forty per cent. of all the farmers interviewed by government representatives believe that experience is the only way to learn how to farm. This percentage told agents recently sent out by the Department of Agriculture that they took no stock in farmers' institutes, demonstration agents, farm papers or Department of Agriculture publications as aids in helping to make the soil more productive.

Starting on motorcycles or on foot four department agents traveled through thirteen states, visiting every farmer along the way and asking questions. This inquiry revealed the fact that of the farmers who got Department of Agriculture bulletins, 84 per cent. read them and 48 per cent. followed the suggestions contained therein. Of those who attended farmers' institutes, it was learned that 54 per cent. practiced the methods advocated there.

SEASON AMOUNTS TO $400,000.00

Stock and Machinery Worth almost Half a Million Sold at Public Sales in Adams County the during Season now Closing.

Stock and machinery to the amount of about $400,000 have changed hands in Adams county since the opening of the spring sale season early in February. The season comes to a close this week.

There have been over two hundred sales this year and the average amount was almost $2000 each. Some were small affairs and netted less than $1000 but these were few and far between and the average was more than made up by the better sales some of which totaled more than $3000, several were over $4000 and one or two passed the $5000 mark.

Prices this year have been fine and probably never before has the general run of prices been so good. It is claimed that horses may have fallen off some, but it is said prices on cattle have advanced wonderfully over other years.

Good horses may be said to be bringing around the $200 mark, and sales have been made at $225, on up to $260 and probably a sale or two has been made around the $300 mark. These prices are for farm animals.

Cows during this sale season have been bringing any place from $85 per head down. In this county just now there seems to be a desire for Holsteins, and cows with Holstein blood in them have been bringing from $70 to $85. Common cows have also been selling very well. Other stock, such as hogs, sheep, etc., have also been bringing good prices.

The prices received for farming machinery have been about the average. Farm machinery depreciates rapidly with use, and while, when offered for sale it may be good, yet the average person starting a farm prefers to buy new machinery rather than to pay half price for machinery which has been used for a year or more. In some cases fair prices are received for machinery, but these cases are the exception.

The season just starting promises to be a good one for the farmer, because of the excellent winter. The wheat crop promises well, and excellent stands of grass have been secured, and unless there should be an unusual drought between now and harvest time, these two crops will be large.

PROTECTS BLACKBIRDS

Governor Tener Signs Bill Prohibiting the Killing of Blackbirds.

The blackbird is now protected by the law in Pennsylvania. Governor Tener on Saturday signed the bill placing the blackbird, the kill-deer plover and the turtle dove on the list of birds which it is unlawful to kill, and fixing the penalty for violation at $10 fine for each bird killed. The bill contains a proviso that blackbirds may be killed by owners of property whereon they may be caught destroying eggs or young of other birds, and grain, fruit or berries.

The bill was advocated by the State Game Commission because of the value of the three birds as insect destroyers, observation having shown that they are useful to farmers.

MRS. HOCKENSMITH

Mrs. Hockensmith Died at her Home in Chambersburg.

Mrs. Hockensmith is survived by her husband, one son, William, Chambersburg; and two sisters, Mary Myers, Guilford; Mrs. Belle George, Waynesboro; eight grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

GETTYSBURGIANS SAFE IN STORM

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Eckenrade, Residents of Omaha, are not Caught in Destruction which Visited that City.

A telegram received on Tuesday from Edward Eckenrode, of Omaha, Nebraska, by H. J. Brinkerhoff said, "Tornado didn't touch us. We are safe. Letters following".

Much concern was felt here Monday and Tuesday, until the message was received, for the safety of Mr. and Mrs. Eckenrode who are residents of the city which has been visited by a tornado causing the loss of 152 lives and injuries to 330 people. Mr. Eckenrode, a son of Dr. C. E. Eckenrode, of West High street, has been in business in Omaha for a number of years, and Mrs. Eckenrode, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Brinkerhoff, of Baltimore street, has been living there since their marriage last year.

Tuesday's papers containing a list of the dead and the more seriously injured do not contain the names of any people well known here though a number of persons from this section and former college students are living near Omaha. It is presumed that they escaped unharmed as the lists are practically complete. Whether they suffered any loss of property is not yet known. Two brothers of Edward Eckenrode formerly resided in Omaha but they are no longer there, having engaged in business elsewhere.

From the message received Tuesday morning it is inferred that Mr. and Mrs. Eckenrode reside in a portion of Omaha where the storm did comparatively little damage and that not only they but their home escaped harm. A full account of the storm appears in another column.

WANT ARBUTUS

Effort to Make the Change Is Strongly Supported by Women.

Hailing the trailing arbutus as the flower whose history is merged with the history of the nation's independence, the Merion Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, is urging the adoption of that flower as the State's floral emblem.

The trailing arbutus, it is pointed out, was the first flower seen by the patriots at Valley Forge after their winter, it was the first American flower seen by the pilgrims of New England, who called it "Mayflower" after their vessel; it was known to the early Virginians and used by them to decorate there at the first Easter celebrated at Jamestown; its flowers are shaped like five-pointed American stars, and its leaves are green like laurels; its flowers are already represented in the American flag, only slightly conventionalized; its habitat is the thirteen original states; it is peculiarly American; there is but one species; the finest specimens occur in neighborhoods consecrated to Revolutionary history and it loves liberty and resists cultivation.

WANTS STATEMENTS

This information is being prepared for communication to the special committee of the House investigating dual office holding and will be the first complete list to be made up. In a number of instances acts of the Legislature are being cited for authority to employ persons at small salaries to handle the clerical duties of various boards. The statement is to be given out on Wednesday.

FRACTURED HIS PROMISE.

Then When Reproaches Came He Gracefully Eased His Conscience.

Thomas Taggart tells a story about one of his constituents who bothered him for small contributions during a campaign several years ago. Pat was in the habit of getting "gloriously" drunk, and in this condition tackled Taggart for some money.

"Go away," said Taggart. "You are drunk. I'll not give you anything while you are in that condition."

"But, Tom, I don't want it for a drink," Pat replied. "Give me $2 and I'll buy a pair of shoes. I swear, Tom, if you'll give me the money for the shoes I won't drink another drop until after election."

"Well, if that's the way you put it, here is $2," said Taggart.

Pat went away and presently returned wearing the new shoes. For several days he was as sober as a judge and Taggart began to feel that his money had been well expended. But the reform did not last long. One day, long before election, Pat appeared in the hotel lobby where Taggart was. Staggering and stuttering, he said: "Say, Tom, I want to speak to you a minute."

"TAKE YOUR OLD SHOES."

"Clear out," said Taggart. "I don't want anything to do with you."

"Why, what's the matter, Tom?"

"Matter? What did you tell me the other day. Didn't you say if I gave you the money for a pair of shoes you would not take another drink until after election?"

Pat sat down suddenly and quickly pulling off the shoes thrust them over toward Taggart, saying, "Well if that's what's eatin' you, take your old shoes."—Indianapolis News.

She Couldn't.

She was a very dignified maiden lady and she entered a dry goods store to make some purchases.

"If you please," she said to the clerk, "I should like to see some hose."

"Yes'm," said the clerk, who was exceedingly bowlegged, leading the way to the hosiery department; "just walk this way."

The lady glared at his waddling figure.

"I can't walk that way," she said.

Exasperated.

Otto Goritz, most amusing of operatic baritones, went into a haberdashery to purchase a flannel shirt, but found nothing to his liking.

"Wass is! das darunter?" he inquired of the salesman, pointing to some goods on a lower shelf.

"Underwear," explained the clerk.

"Under dere," said the singer, with some impatience.

"Underwear," repeated the clerk.

"Dummkopf!" shouted the exasperated baritone. "I keep showing you under here, and you keep asking me under where!" And he left the place in high dudgeon.

Quayle's Time For Retiring.

Dr. W. A. Quayle, bishop of the Methodist church and a popular lecturer, in the early days of his ministry went back to preach one Sunday to a former congregation in Kansas and was entertained by one of his old parishioners. After the evening services the family gathered round the hearth and exchanged reminiscences with their guest, apparently without any thought of retiring. Eleven o'clock came and 12 o'clock.

The conversation lagged and all showed unmistakable signs of weariness. Dr. Quayle yawned politely and rubbed his drooping eyelids. His host moved restlessly in his chair. His hostess eyed the timepiece with growing alarm. The very air was drowsy, but no one seemed able to end the awkward situation.

Finally, as the clock chimed 1:30 o'clock, his hostess asked deprecatingly, but with a note of desperation in her voice:

"Brother Quayle, when do you go to bed?"

"When I get a chance," replied Dr. Quayle meekly.—Kansas City Star.

Keeping Him Alive

By F. A. MITCHEL

The old colonel lay dying. His son, a captain in the army in the Philippines, was on his way to see his father before he died and was expected every hour to arrive. He was the apple of the old soldier's eye. They had fought together in the Spanish-American war. The colonel had seen his son wounded and carried past him to the rear, but had refrained from any further expression of grief than a "God bless you, my boy," and had pressed on at the head of his regiment. The son had recovered and after peace came had been sent to the United States possessions in the Pacific.

When it was known that the colonel had not long to live the son was notified and, having secured a leave of absence, sent word that he would start for home immediately. They told the father that his boy was coming, and for a time it buoyed him up wonderfully. But his disease was rapidly wearing him out, and he soon fell back again.

"Doctor," he said to his physician "can you keep me alive till my son arrives?"

"I shall try, colonel."

"But you must."

"I can't work a miracle."

The colonel was not satisfied. His doctor was an old man brought up in the old time school, and his patient wished for younger blood, one who if he could not defeat nature's laws could by daring and a knowledge of their workings produce some marvelous results. So the next day he called in a young man noted for his original methods and, dismissing the old doctor who had been attending him, placed himself under the young doctor's care. These were the instructions he gave him in the language he would write an order:

"You are not to attack my disease with a view to curing me. You will use every effort, take every risk, to keep me alive till my son arrives that we may meet once more on earth. In case you succeed $5,000 will be paid you from my estate by my son, whom I shall instruct verbally to do so. If I am able to give him the instructions you will receive the money. If I am not able to give them you will receive nothing but an ordinary fee."

Never did a young physician have a better chance to make a start in his profession. The doctor devoted himself personally day and night to his patient. Ten days remained from the time he was engaged before the captain could possibly reach the bedside of his father. Every stimulant known to the profession was administered to the invalid, but in spite of all of them he gradually sank. Eight days passed, and there was barely enough strength left in him to keep him conscious. Then came a message that the ship in which the son was coming was making port at San Francisco.

When a telegram was received announcing that the captain had left the Pacific coast for home it was known that he would arrive on time in three days at noon. The doctor told the colonel of the time his son would be with him and urged him to nerve himself to fight death.

"He is coming," said the old soldier, resolutely, "and I will hold the position till he arrives."

But twenty-four hours before the captain was due a severe storm set in, and the weather conditions have a marked effect on those struggling with disease. The old soldier held out until fully till the morning of the day his son was expected to arrive. Then he fell away so rapidly that his doctor felt obliged to administer the most powerful heart stimulant known to the profession. It revived the patient, but not for long. Then oxygen was applied and lastly galvanism.

By such means the doctor succeeded in keeping his patient alive till the hour and minute the train was due. Then came word that it was an hour late. For a moment the doctor was staggered. Then he resolved on what proved a stroke of genius. The colonel lived near an army station, and the doctor telephoned the situation to the commandant and asked him to send a detachment, with firearms and blank cartridges. In half an hour twenty men under command of a sergeant were before the colonel's door.

A carriage dashed up to the house, and a young man alighted and ran inside and upstairs. Kneeling by the bed he exclaimed:

"Father!"

But there was no reply. The colonel was unconscious.

Going to the window the doctor cried to the sergeant below.

"Beat the long roll!"

The sick man heard, and a light came into his eyes, a flush into his cheek.

"A volley!" cried the doctor.

Twenty rifles sounded at once.

"Turn out the guard!" cried the colonel. "The enemy is upon us!" Then seeing his son "My boy! My boy! I feared you would not arrive in time."

A light came into the father's eye, a tinge of red to his cheek, as his son put his arms about him and kissed him as he had done when a child. Then the old man's words became indistinct, and he closed his eyes with a faint "Good by."

But another volley infused still more life, and the colonel lived several hours during which he conversed with his son and gave the instructions he had promised to give concerning the doctor's reward.
